THE LAST RIDE.

There was red wine flowing from the flagons
The jewel-crusted flagons slim and tall,
And a hundred rebels, laughing, jesting,
And a hundred toasts ringing down the hall;
For the baron held a feast at the castle,
The gay young baron, lithe and tall.

From the dais-steps the red drums beating,
And the horns and the silver trumps a-blowing,
And the quick sweet rasping of the fiddles,
Set the dancers in the dance-room a-going,
And all through the palace ran the music,
And all night the red wine was flowing.

And the baron led the wassail and the dance,
The gay young baron, lithe and tall,
With gallant smiles and jests for the lovely women guests,
Till the cock crew athwart the castle wall;
But amid the lovely faces rising out of ruffs and laces,
One face for the baron shone fairer than them all.

He had eyes [illegible] from the drinking and the dancing,
He was [illegible] to the discovery at her side;
He was [illegible] for was pleading and entreating,
Still she [illegible] and denied.
He was [illegible] pleading and entreating,
When [illegible] single tar and wide

Rang [illegible] sharp treble in the court yard,
Then [illegible] there, for a sharp battle-call;
And [illegible] a trooper heavily shouted,
For [illegible] for the king's colors and all!
Round and round, over hill and over valley,
Far and wide rang the sharp battle-call.

Round and round rang the news of the riding,
The riding of old Conkwerry that night;
And the barons, one and all, at the liege's battle call,
Mustered forth, lithe, strong, for the fight.
Curtains ringing, feathers flinging, pennons swinging—
O, it must have been a spirit-stirring sight!

Women's faces grew as white as the roses—
The white rose of York, upon each breast;
Red lips in that moment lost their blooming,
Eyes, hearts in that moment lost their zest.
But out of [illegible] score and more
There was one face sweeter than the rest.

Eyes that a moment since dissembled him,
Lips that were laughing and coaxing,
Hearts that could not [illegible] with his wooing,
Now on the wearer's breast [illegible];
While the [illegible] rings its blast, and the troopers [illegible] past
Over hill and over valley, flying, flying.

Yet the baron rides fast, but the baron rides fast,
As [illegible] over rubber, rides away;
With a [illegible] upon his face, and with a gallant grace,
As if [illegible] to tournament, or a hunting holiday.
And the early dawning, in the gray of the morning,
The red field is won ere the day's half begun;
And the victorious are shouting, as the round-heads flouting,
[illegible] over hill and valley comes creeping up the sun;
Then the shouts and the cheers turn suddenly to tears,
For there on the field, his face cold from sun,

White and still in the dawning of the wild autumn morning,
White and still, in the chill of the new-risen day,
Under the roundheads' arms lay the boy here [illegible],
Who so late rode straight in the front of the fray;
With a smile upon his face, and with a gallant grace,
As if he rode to tournament or a hunting holiday.

Miscellaneous.

Warning to Parents.

Recently a miscreant named Ortwein was hung at Pittsburgh, for murdering a whole family named Hamnett. Ortwein lived with them. On the evening of the murder they went out on a visit, leaving two little daughters and Ortwein and a boy in the house. The three children were all murdered during the evening and some money taken. When the parents came home they were knocked down as they entered the door and killed. The house was then fired. Ortwein was arrested, convicted and hanged, having confessed his guilt previous to his execution. Mrs. Swisshelm writes as follows upon this heart-rending occurence:

Before this Hamnett horror passes out of the public mind, permit me to call attention to the lesson it teaches on the common habit of leaving children to the care of servants and other irresponsible persons. It is possible that Ortwein told the truth in his last confession, and that he had simply been waiting an opportunity which would certainly have come sooner or later, for the probabilities are that he fled to the last and only confessed that part of his crime which his shameless face told him it was useless to deny; but, however this may be, the parents were went out for a social visit, and left two little girls from dark until bedtime and late in the night wholly in the power of an apprentice and tramp, cannot be innocent in the catastrophy which followed. Poor Mr. and Mrs. Hamnett paid a sad penalty for their want of prudence; but while we regard them as victims, public safety requires that their neglect of duty should not go unnoticed.

It is the more important that attention be called to this view of the case, since their delinquency was of a kind so common in all classes of society. There are perhaps few parents who do not, sometimes, go from home and leave their children with persons to whose care they would not entrust fifty dollars in cash. True, few of the little ones are murdered outright by their guardians, because the number of absolute monsters in human form is limited; but many a child dies from unsuspected injuries received at the hands of those to whose care it has been confided, while father and mother took tea with a neighbor, attended a lecture, a concert, a theatre, an evening party or prayer meeting. Many a seed of disease is sown and many a lesson of mortality taught never dreamed of by the confiding parents. Those parents who, to enjoy any pleasure or means of improvement, leave their little ones to the care of Biddy picked up in an intelligence office, or a tramp called from the roadside, are either grossly deficient in prudence or in natural affection, and certainly are morally responsible for the consequences of their neglect of duty.

It seems hard that a mother should be "tied at home;" but this is one of the conditions of the motherhood, and no claim of society, no pretence of culture, no religious duty, no mission ever can release her from the obligation of personal care of her children.

Only when she is obliged to leave them to earn their bread can she be guiltless in forsaking her post, for an hour, without providing a substitute on whose sense of honor and affection she can rely.

This duty of constant, personal care devolves, principally, upon the mother, because it is the father's duty to go out and win their bread and when she goes for relaxation, it should be when he can supply her place at home. Society should not expect the father and mother of a family to go out together, for evening amusements, except when a grandmother, or other relation, takes their place at home. The birds might teach us useful lessons on this subject. One guards the nest while the other eats, and if this terrible tragedy teaches our people to think more of the danger of leaving children to the care of servants, it will be something gained.

The sea is the largest cemetery, and its slumberers sleep without a monument. All grave yards, in other lands, show some symbol of distinction between the great and the small, the rich and the poor; but in that ocean cemetery, the king, the clown, the prince, and the peasant are alike distinguished.

Major Gen. Peter Muhlenberg.

From some brief biographical sketches in the Philadelphia Press, we extract the following, with corrections:

The name of Muhlenberg is most intimately and honorably identified, not only with the colonial, but the subsequent history of Pennsylvania. No family within the realm of the commonwealth can present a more formidable exhibit of actual worth. For almost a century its representative members figured conspicuously in the various spheres of theology, science, and politics. Their name and fame were not the result of a combination of fortuitous circumstances, nor were they reared on the ephemeral base of mere crude wealth. Their leading members were well educated men of strong moral stamina and irreproachable integrity. Their immediate ancestor, Henry Melchoir Muhlenberg, D. D., the venerable patriarch of the Lutheran church in America, born in Eimbeck, Hanover, September 6, 1711, and emigrated to America in 1742, as a missionary to Philadelphia. He shortly afterwards removed to the Trappe Montgomery county, Pa., and there organized the first Lutheran synod of America—that of Pennsylvania. Muhlenberg was a highly accomplished gentleman of chaste literary taste and a profound theologian.

Gotthilf Henry Ernst Muhlenberg, D. D., a son of Henry Melchoir, was a distinguished scientist, an eloquent pulpit orator, a member of some of the prominent societies of France and Germany, but was better known in this country as a botanist. His chief works in this, his favorite department, were "Catalogus Plantarum," "Graminea Americæ Septentrionalis," and "Flora Lancastriensis." He lived in quiet elegance in Lancaster, Pa. Another son, Frederick Augustus, was a man of fine natural ability, a polished speaker and a superior presiding officer. He officiated as a minister in New York until the British forces entered that city. He was subsequently a member of the old Congress of 1779-80, a member and speaker of the Pennsylvania legislature in 1781-4, afterwards State Treasurer and President of the convention that ratified the United States Constitution. He was also a member of Congress from 1789 to 1797, and presiding officer of the first and third Congresses. His casting votes carried Jay's treaty into effect. Henry A. Muhlenberg, clergyman and statesman, was a son of the Rev. Ernst, and for several years officiated as a clergyman at Reading, Pennsylvania; was in Congress from 1829 to 1838, and was a candidate of a portion of Democratic party in Pennsylvania for Governor in 1835, but was unsuccessful. In 1837 he declined the secretaryship of the navy, also the mission to Russia, but accepted the position of minister to Austria, which was tendered to him in 1838. In 1844 he was nominated as the Democratic candidate for Governor, by a small majority over Francis R. Shunk, but died of apoplexy before the election. Shunk was afterwards nominated in his place and elected.

Major General Peter Muhlenberg, the eldest of the three sons of Henry Melchoir, was born October 1, 1746, at the Trappe, Montgomery county, Pa. The three sons were sent to Germany to receive all the advantages of a thorough and complete education. The early theological training which young Peter had received around the hearthstone of his gifted father was likely to prove an injudicious and unremunerative investment. He soon became tired of monotonous classics and German metaphysics, absconded from Halle, and for over a year was a jolly high private in a crack regiment of Imperial dragoons. His fast life, however, was brief, for he soon recrossed the ocean and returning to the "still waters and green pastures" of the Trappe, received a solid education at home, and was prepared for service in the Swedish Lutheran church. His denomination deeming Episcopal ordination necessary, he went to England in 1772, with Bishop White, then also a candidate for holy orders, and they were ordained at the same time by the Bishop of London. Returning once more to his native land he officiated as an Episcopal minister for several years at Woodstock, Virginia. At the inauguration of the revolution he exchanged his clerical robes for the uniform of a patriot soldier. On entering his pulpit for the last time he told his parishioners that there was a time for all things—a time to preach and a time to fight—and now was the time to fight. After services he gracefully threw back his clerical robes, displayed a full uniform. He then calmly and deliberately read his commission as colonel, and ordered some drummer boys in the hall in rear to beat up for recruits. The whole affair was theatrical and somewhat sensational, but it had a magical effect, and the honest parishioners of Woodstock rallied in large numbers to the standard of the gallant young commander. They formed a prominent element in what was known as the German regiment, or eighth Virginia, a corps eminently distinguished during the revolution for its dash and gallantry. His first campaigns were in Georgia and South Carolina, and his masterly skill and undaunted bravery in their management elicited the highest commendation from Gen. Washington. Indeed, young Muhlenberg was a particular favorite of the commander-in-chief, the latter having great confidence in his coolness, decision and valor. In February, 1777, he was appointed a brigadier general in the revolutionary army, and in the Autumn of that year actively and valiantly participated in the memorable battle of Brandywine and Germantown. In the campaign of 1778 he was present at Monmouth, doing good service, and in 1779 commanded the reserve at the storming of Stony Point. In 1780, when General Leslie invaded Virginia, Muhlenberg opposed him, and at that time the chief command. When the subsequent movement was made by Generals Arnold and Phillip he was attached to the immediate command of Baron Steuben, and when Lord Cornwallis entered Virginia our gallant young Pennsylvanian was next in command to General Lafayette. He was also present at the historic battle of Yorktown, commanding on that occasion the dashing First Brigade of Light Infantry. It has been asserted with some degree of confidence that it was General Muhlenberg who commanded the American storming party at Yorktown, the honor of which position has been attributed by different historiographers of the Revolution to another person. Be this as it may, there is no disputation as to his dauntless courage, and the distinguished part he played at the siege of Yorktown. At the termination of the long and eventful war, when its dark shadows were transformed into streaming sunshine, and peace with her olive wand gave safety, strength and glory to the new-born Republic, our bronzed young hero who had exchanged the pulpit for the camp, sheathed his trusty sword without a stain of dishonor upon its bright blade. At the disbanding of the forces he wore the pausants of a major general, and no knight of the olden time, with his shattered lance and splintered spear, was more justly entitled to meritorious recognition and promotion.

Peace being formally announced, General Muhlenberg returned to his native state, and with that remarkable power of the adaptation for which Americans are proverbial, deserted the standard of Mars and devoted his energies and talents to the practical matters of quiet civil life. Men of his intellectual calibre, however, are always restive in whatever sphere their lot is cast, and are seldom contented with a reserve position in the midst of exciting events. They yearn "for other worlds to conquer," and are never followers but always aggressive leaders. General Muhlenberg immediately entered into political life and successfully filled several very high and important State and national positions. He was first elected a member of the supreme executive council of the State, and subsequently in 1785, was chosen vice president of the State, at the time Benjamin Franklin was president. On the adoption of the Federal Constitution he was elected a member of the first Congress, and was afterwards re-elected a member of the third and was also of the sixth Congress. In 1797 he was appointed a presidential elector, and in 1801 was elected United States Senator to represent the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The latter position, however, he resigned in 1802, and was appointed by Mr. Jefferson to the more lucrative, but perhaps less honorable position of supervisor of revenue for the district of Pennsylvania. In 1805 he was appointed collector of the port of Philadelphia, which position he held at the time of his death which occurred on the 1st day of October, 1807, in the sixty-second year of his age, at his country seat, near the Schuylkill, in Montgomery county, Pa. General Muhlenberg, like the other leading members of that prominent family, was a strong adherent of the Democratic party and although a severe partisan and unflinching personal and political friend of Mr. Jefferson, was as incorruptable in public as he was honest in private life. He discharged his duties well in all the numerous military and political distinctions heaped upon him, and was as firm in the Cabinet as he was reliant in the field.

Brigham's Dominions.

A letter from Salt Lake City to the Cincinnati Commercial, says:

Speaking of new States, the record for the close of 1874 presents some curious contrasts between Colorado and Utah. Colorado has been settled sixteen years, Utah twenty-eight. Yet the population of the former is about equal to that of Utah, and its assessed wealth is twice as great. There is one hotel in Denver worth more than any two squares in Salt Lake, deducting the Walker house (Gentile), and two Friday, March 19, 1875.

Capt. John C. Beaumont, son of the late Hon. Andrew Beaumont, by an act of the late Congress was restored to his former position in the Navy, and has since been appointed Commodore.

Ben. Butler proposes to carpet-bag into the First Massachusetts District, where there is a vacancy, for the purpose of getting back into Congress. He had better not do it. The majority there is only 5,736, too small a margin for Benjamin to go on.

Grant is taking good care of his favorites among the Congressmen who have been repudiated by their constituents. Five or six of them have already been appointed to office, among them the author of the infamous Force bill.

The Philadelphia Times, in a liberal review of the retiring Congressmen from this State, says of one of the malignants of the Fishing Creek invasion: "Mr. Albright was an accident of the demoralized political patch-work of 1872, and renders his chief service to the country by retiring." Little soul, let him rest!

Archbishop McCloskey, of New York, has been appointed Cardinal by the Pope of Rome. This is the first appointment to that high distinction ever made in America. The new Cardinal is a native of New York, and one of its ablest preachers. The Catholic church in the United States, it is stated, numbers from seven to eight millions of members

P. L. Hackenberg, Esq., has become editor and proprietor of the Miltonian, published at Milton, Pa., which we believe is the oldest paper in the interior of the State. It was established by Gen. Henry Frick, who edited it for a very long time, and it is now in its fifty-ninth year. It was originally a Democratic paper, wielding a large influence, but opposed the removal of the deposits from the old U. S. Bank by Gen. Jackson, and after the triumph of the latter became a Whig organ, then Know Nothing, and finally Republican. It has always been more than ordinarily well edited, and we believe is the first paper we ever read. The new editor has much improved its spirit but not its politics.

We recently gave publicity to a false rumor that G. L. I. Painter has been elected President of the Lycoming Insurance Co. It should have been his brother Wm. L. I. Painter. Also to the effect that a lady was commissioned for Muncy Station and Mr. Painter continues to serve the good people of Muncy in a very acceptable manner.—Montour American.

In this attempted correction there are about as many errors as a blunderer could well get into the same space. Wm. P. I. Painter was elected President of the Lycoming Insurance company, G. L. I. Painter is postmaster at Muncy, and "continues to serve the good people of Muncy [in that position] in a very acceptable manner," and a woman was appointed postmistress at Muncy Station. Try again, Mr. American, you may for once get right and intelligible by repeated effort

Hon. John Scott, the retiring Republican United States Senator from this State, though a madman in some of his latter-day politics, was an honest man of more than the average ability of Senators as that body has for a few years past been constituted. Because of his pride of character as a man of conscientious action, he was repudiated by the Radical ring of this State, who cast the empty vote of their party for some obscure politician as a rebuke to Senator Scott for refusing the dictation of men far below him in either character, ability or motive. Mr. Scott was the most respectable Senator the Radicals have at any time had in that body from this State, and he retires with the good opinion of all fair-minded men who have closely watched his course. We never thought he could feel exactly at home in the nest he found himself—with a party ruled by medium intellects and first-class plunderers—and we see no very good reason why he should not spend the remainder of his days with the party of his early manhood.

The Franking Privilege.

The receipt of a bound volume of the President's Message with the accompanying documents, under the frank of Hon. W. A. Wallace, reminds us that the late Congress partially restored the franking privilege.

How Congressmen ever got it into their heads that the franking privilege was unpopular and ought therefore to be repealed, we never could imagine. We know the city papers said so, but certainly no Congressman is so stupid as to suppose it possible for a city paper to represent public opinion, unless it be after it is formally expressed. We are rather of the opinion—in fact decidedly so—that Congress abolished the privilege as an excuse for the members not troubling themselves with keeping their constituents well informed as to their personal action in that body, upon topics of discussion before it, and for not communicating other valuable information. The truth is that the abolition of the franking privilege cut off nearly all communication between Congressmen and their constituents. The average member was as completely isolated from his constituents, his neighbors, acquaintances, friends and supporters, as though he had been banished to Kamschatka, and his constituents knew as little of his course as they do of the morals of the man in the moon. We heard of Ben Butler, and of Garfield, and Lamar and John Young Brown, and perhaps of half a dozen others, and of those ambitious gabby gentlemen who would put their hands in their pockets and pay a reporter handsomely for putting them in the papers, especially as antagonizing crack orators like the latter two named, and that was about the end of any body's knowledge about Congressmen. That was the result of the abolition of the franking privilege. There was no saving to the government. Stamps furnished to members and express charges far over-ran any saving in postage, as the government accounts show.

Like every Congressional privilege, that relating to franking was abused. But that was no more a reason for its total abolition, than that you should cut off a horse's head to prevent him from kicking. It was said members sent and received their washing and clothing, tons of books, and stealings and provender generally by this means, but all that could readily be prevented by limiting the weight that might be franked—say something less than an ordinary shirt weighs. This limitation would still leave the Congressman without excuse for not keeping his immediate constituents thoroughly posted as to his actions and doings. It is hoped the coming Congress will have the manhood to restore the franking privilege so far as letters and light documents are concerned, and that it will also have the manhood to discard more fustian and bunkum.

Cumulative and Limited Voting.

An editor who is so utterly ignorant as to speak of the "cumulative or limited vote" as being one and the same plan, had better be at something else than trying to enlighten people. The two plans are opposites, the former giving the elector as many votes, to be disposed of as he pleases, as there are places to be filled, while the latter limits him to voting for a less number of candidates than are to be elected. The former system is admirable at least in the selection of officers of corporations, where every pecuniary interest ought to be represented, as in partnerships, and as a preventive of a majority of stock robbing the balance, by giving contracts to favorites or to selves, or in malappropriation, &c. The latter has worked well and most satisfactorily in the choosing of election officers. For thirty-five years past it has thus been in operation in this State without an objector, which is a sufficient vindication as far as it goes.

How far either plan may be successful on a more extended scale, is yet unsettled. There are draw-backs, and our own judgment is decidedly adverse to the limited vote, as throwing all power into the hands of political conventions, too often controlled by unwise and unworthy men, and inspired by unpatriotic influences.

Since these plans have been partially put in practice, however, it would seem to be the part of prudence to give them a fair trial and allow them to be judged by results.

It is scarcely worth the space, but the statement that John Stuart Mill, a prolific and somewhat fanciful English writer on political economy of the shallow Henry C. Carey school, is the originator of one or both these plans, may as well be corrected. He to some extent discussed them, but we do not think he ever originated any thing and was rather a logician by trade than a genius, who followed up new notions as a more promising crop than would be afforded by old and approved seeds.

We hear of no serious complaint of the working of the cumulative plan of voting for members of the popular House of the Legislature of Illinois, and we believe it would work well in the election of Congressmen, breaking up the outrageously unjust and infamous business of gerrymandering.

The Times, Col. McClure's new Philadelphia daily, has made its appearance. The typography is rather neat, though the type (except the editorials) are too small, especially for broad columns, and the press work is not well done. In the salutatory we have this declaration of principles, after some parlaver about "independence," viz:

The Times will earnestly resist the rapid tendency toward centralization of political power, and it will battle manfully against all political creeds which tolerate it, and against the promotion of all men who advocate or accept it. It will maintain the rights of all the people of the States, regardless of politics, condition, or race, to select their own governments, in obedience to the Constitution and the laws, without the arbitrary interposition of national authority, or the employment of the laws and agencies of war in time of peace. It will insist that elections belong to the people; that they shall be the honest expressions of the popular will, alike in Pennsylvania and in Louisiana, and not the playthings of military commanders, or of capricious executives, or of revolutionary leagues, or of debauched manipulators of returns; and when the people have declared their wishes in the election of their rulers, great or small, that there shall be obedience to the judgment of the ballot-box by all parties. It will demand economy and fidelity in every department of authority, city, State, and national, and will fearlessly arraign those who abuse public trust, without stopping to inquire what political party is to answer for having clothed them with numerited honors. It will discuss public issues, public events and public men with that measure of freedom that is dictated by truth, but with that dignity and courtesy which should ever characterize the press of the most enlightened nation of the world. It will seek to deserve the respect and generous good will of all honorable cotemporaries, and will leave personal warfare to such as may choose thus to disgrace a most elevated and useful profession.

A pretty substantial Democratic platform, upon which we would like to see our Democratic representatives, State and Federal, plant themselves so firmly that earthquakes could not shake them, but about which we hear much more than we see practiced. The paper is "newsy," spiced a little, and altogether creditable to its editor and publisher. It has room yet to come up to the point of a great paper, and for that it must have time for complete organization. We hope it may succeed in its aim of giving a higher tone to Philadelphia journalism.

By the way, who is meant by "rulers" in the above quotation? It must be either the office-holders or the small politicians who make so many of them. "The most enlightened nation of the world" is good for an extra "independent" paper!

Who Pay the Taxes?

In speaking of a recent salary grab that passed the State Senate, the Clearfield Republican remarks:

"This is a handsome increase, but as their pay comes chiefly from corporations, we shall file no objections at this time."

We are aware that the revenues of the State are derived chiefly from taxes on corporations, but does anybody suppose that these, in turn, do not levy them upon the people, with a very large addition for collection? When coal is taxed, as now, four cents per ton, are not several cents added to the price to meet the taxation? So with transportation. Every thing that the farmer or manufacturer produces and sells is taxed by the corporations if it is carried over railroads or canals, and so is every thing that people buy, if brought from a distance. However taxes may be imposed they are finally collected from the people. A direct tax is least expensive and burdensome to them, because it costs less to collect, and being directly assessed and applied, can readily be accounted for. But who can now tell how much State tax he annually pays in settling his coal bills, his store purchases, or how much less he receives for his produce and manufactures because of these taxes levied in the first instance upon corporations? If our Clearfield cotemporary imagines that he does not pay his full share of salary grabs he is hallucinated.

Extra Session of the U. S. Senate.

This body has been spending most of its time in discussing Pinchback On Tuesday they again laid him on the table until December, by a vote of 33 to 30. We infer that this was done by his friends, to bridge over the fall elections, and that when a direct vote is taken he will be rejected.

Later information affirms our conviction that Pinckback's case was postponed at the instance of his friends. Certain that he would be rejected on a direct vote, West of Louisiana moved to postpone to December, in which he was supported by the extreme Radicals and a few other Republicans who desired to dodge the issue at this time. Cameron was compelled to violate a pair—a gross breach of honor—to carry the motion. The Democrats protested against the postponement, but in vain.

Gen. Edwin S. Osborne has been re-appointed and confirmed as Major General of this Military district.

Legislative Proceedings.

The House has passed all the appropriation bills, and has unfortunately been induced to grind through a large amount of additional legislation, much of it in defiance of the provision of the Comititution which requires all bills to be read at length. On Friday night the House remained in session all night and from all accounts the scenes of the occasion were most disgraceful. The bill to reduce Boom charges from $1.25 to 90 cents passed by a vote of 113 to 48. It was at once sent to the Senate, where a "set up" committee promptly reported it with a negative recommendation, which kills it for the session.

The new county bill has passed both Houses, but in a shape to send it to a conference committee. The desires of those favorable to new counties will probably prevail.

The general appropriation bill will be passed by the Senate as it came from the House, though a majority of Senators desire to amend it, lest the House might refuse to pass it and thus compel a continuance of the session, to which the Republicans seem to be opposed for political reasons.

The State Treasurer asserts that the aggregate of the House appropriations will exceed the revenues of the State that may be applied to their payment by more than a million of dollars. The Democrats of the House deny this, and assert that the Treasurer wants the additional million for private speculation and to cover default in the Treasury. The House, therefore, sternly refuses to permit any of the Sinking fund revenues to be diverted to other purposes. But the partizans of the Treasurer in the Senate propose to meet the difficulty by refusing to pass sundry of the charitable and miscellaneous appropriation bills passed by the House. If the latter body is possessed of manly firmness we suspect the Senate will yield. If not, the people will profit by the result.

The Local Option repeal bill passed the Senate on second reading by a vote of 29 to 17, so amended as to include a stringent license law, fixing licenses at from $100 to $1000 per year. The repealing bill will probably fail for want of agreement between the two Houses.

When the Senate judicial salary bill came up in the House, on Monday evening, a motion was made to reduce the salaries of county judges from $5,000 per year to $4,000. Not agreed to, yeas 69, nays 112. Messrs. McHenry and Ryan voted no. The bill then passed second reading. As the people both pay the salaries and elect the members who make them, we suppose we are bound to infer that this is their will. When once fixed, these salaries cannot be changed during the terms of the Judges now in office. The high figures established will induce a flood of bills at the next session for additional Judgeships, all of which, through combinations, will no doubt pass, and the cost of the Judiciary in the end must become enormous, and its quality will be correspondingly decreased.

The Local Option bill is now before a conference committee of the two Houses. Result uncertain.

The Boom bill, after being reported negatively was referred to another committee and reported affirmatively on Tuesday. It can scarcely be passed after the late day it was reported even if a majority favor it.

The new county bill goes to a committee of conference. Large numbers of bills are being ground through both houses after a Legislative diarrhea fashion. Most fortunately the day of adjournment arrived yesterday.

P. S. The bill repealing the Local Option law and adopting a stringent license law has passed both Houses.

Philadelphians in the Legislature.

The character of the delegation sent to the Legislature by Philadelphia is an insult to all the State They are ignorant, rude, ill-bred and boisterous, and are constantly guilty of want of decent respect for authority or for the body of which they are members. There may be some who are a partial exception to this general description of them, but such is the character of the delegation. They would like to be dictatorial if they knew enough, but, failing in that for want of brains, they attempt to substitute impudence and blackguardism as a means to rule. No wonder, therefore, that the county members so often act as a unit against Philadelphia interests, and no wonder that what ought to be the great Centennial commands no interest and scarcely respect from the people of the State.

Once all this was different. Although some men of indifferent character then crept into the Legislature from Philadelphia, both the old city and county were sure to send some first class men to rule their delegations. Now the associates and equals of the "flying dutchman," of "Slippery Jim," of the "educated hog," &c., give character to and perhaps compose the delegation. Ought the people of the State to regard this conduct of Philadelphia otherwise than as an insult to them? They at least try to send decent men, who have regard for good names, and who behave in public at any rate with ordinary propriety, but Philadelphia leavens the whole with her educated hogs—educated in vulgarity if not in letters—and thus brings the whole body into disrepute and contempt. The country does right in resenting this state of affairs, and it will be to its own interest and credit if it cultivates hatred for a city that acts thus towards it.

New Hampshire Election.

The result of the New Hampshire election is as near as may be a tie between the Democratic and Republican candidates for Governor, a few hundred votes for a Temperance candidate preventing the election of either. The Senate is a tie and the Republicans claim a bare majority in the House. The Democrats elect a majority of Councillors, and two out of three Congressmen, which is a gain of one.

The result for Governor and a number of Assemblymen was produced by the Republicans who have heretofore supported the Temperance candidates secretly voting for the Republican nominees, leaving the Democratic Temperance men to throw away their votes on the candidates of that organization. A smart yankee trick but one that will return to plague its perpetrators. There has been no Republican gain in New Hampshire, even over last spring, but the Democracy are the gaining party there, the State having formerly given 5,000 to 10,000 Republican majority and sent a full delegation of Republicans to Congress.

If there was any doubt in Grant's mind about the people of Arkansas being banditti it was dispelled by the proclamation of Gov. Garland setting apart the 26th of March, as a day of Thanksgiving for the Poland resolution.

It is officially denied that General Schenck has resigned his position as minister to England; it is not, however, denied that he ought to do so.

The Legislature of Indiana has repealed the stringent liquor law of that State, and passed a license law in its stead.

The Radical papers have been regaling their readers lately with what purported to be a speech of Gen. Forrest at Mulden, Tennessee, but which they manufactured themselves, to the effect that another war was inevitable, that the carpet-baggers ought to be assassinated, &c Gen. Forrest's attention having been called to the fraud he declares that he knows of no such place as Mulden and that there certainly is none in Tennessee, that he never uttered or held such sentiments and that he has not made a speech anywhere in two years. The forgery was gotten up for use in the New Hampshire election, as was also one in denunciation of the Democratic party ascribed to ex-President Johnson.

Foreign News.

The French have been in a state of effervescence for two weeks past, about a Cabinet. President McMahan finally grew rough on their hands and selected one to suit himself, made up of moderate men so far as a Frenchman can attain that point, and rejecting the candidates put forward by the factions. Upon the whole, the result is a Bonapartist victory, for while that party is not directly represented and did not desire to be, all the candidates opposed by it were rejected. Revolution is probably postponed until the Bonapartists choose to make it.

The war in Spain is characterised by indifferent results, and the other countries of Europe are quiet

TO MAKE ENOUGH MONEY

In the next three months to keep you a year, any unemployed person between the ages of 16 and 60 should take an agency for THE ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY, a large, sparkling, literary and family paper, ($2.50 a year) pure, instructive, and amusing; half of its pages full of beautiful pictures, the other half containing the choicest reading matter. JAMES PARTON contributing editor. Like that great English paper, the "London Illustrated News," it is highly moral, but entirely unsectarian and non-political. During a year it furnishes over 1,100 pictures, and the equal of 9 large octavo volumes of reading matter. IT GIVES AWAY, extra each week, a large engraving, 12 in a year, size 17x24 inches These are exquisite fac similes of the finest steel engravings, on heavy tinted paper, with margins suitable for framing, and are truly a fine art gallery every year. Besides each subscriber is presented with the chromo, "Gold Fish, Pansies and Flowers," size 22x28, from a set of oil colors, painted by Ramsey. Not only the largest and finest premium ever given, but the most wonderfully beautiful chromo ever produced. It is just the paper for which everybody has been waiting—larger and finer than any other, at half the usual cost. Its success nearly 100 subscribers a day being received proves this. So complete, so progressive, so full of merit as well as entertaining matter is this paper, that we venture to assert that to every thinking, observant American, a year's subscription costs $2.50, in actual, useful value, worth fifty dollars. AGENTS.—This combination is unequalled. It is an instantaneous and pronounced success. Every good American takes at least one paper, of course. He takes this paper because 1) it is the nicest newest and best; (2) it is the cheapest—giving a great bargain—and thus suits the hard times. It sells itself. Be quick. If you want an agency. This time of the year any agent can make from $10 to $2 per day Send three stamps for specimens and liberal terms, with reserved ground to agents, subscribers, press notices (or better yet, to save time, send $2.50 at once for a complete outfit, and make $10 while you would otherwise be waiting. You are sure to take hold and work. Many refunded if not perfectly satisfied, or if the territory you want is already occupied. Address all orders for specimens, subscriptions, or notices to T. S. MOORE, Publisher "The Illustrated Weekly," P. O. Box 5250 No. 31 Dey St., N. Y. 4w.

JURUBEBA

ARE YOU

WEAK, NERVOUS, OR DEBILITATED?

Are you so languid that any exertion requires more of an effort than you feel capable of making?

Then try Jurubeba, the wonderful tonic and invigorator, which acts directly on the nervous organs so as to impart vigor to all the vital forces.

It is no alcoholic appetizer, which stimulates for a short time, only to leave the system in a worse state of misery, but it is a vegetable tonic acting directly on the liver and spleen.

It regulates the Bowels, quiets the nerves, and gives sight and healthy tone to the whole system so as to soon make the invalid feel like a new person.

Its operation is not violent, but is characterized by great gentleness, yet the patient experiences a sudden change, no marked results, but gradually its properties

"Fold their tents, like the Arabs, And silently steal away."

This is no new and untried discovery, but has been long used with wonderful remedial results, and is recommended by the highest medical authorities, "the most powerful tonic and alterative known."

NOVEMBER ELECTION.

The Electors of this county will vote for the following officers at the November election, 1875:

State—Governor and Treasurer.

District—Senator, with Lycoming, Montour and Sullivan.

County—Associate Judge, (in place of Judge Monroe.) Prothonotary, Register and Recorder, Treasurer, three Commissioners and three Auditors, but in the case of the two last named offices each voter is restricted to voting for two persons only. This will probably give the Republicans a representation in each board.

"What's the matter with 5th street school?" Come and see; don't condemn teachers upon the reports of pupils, nor allege wrong-doing at school rooms you have never inspected. The way to sustain a good school is to go yourself, especially if you have children therein; the way to make a good school into a poor one, is to stay away, and help to circulate unfavorable rumors.

It is practically impossible for the teacher to visit every patron, as a pastor visits his parishioners; it is equally impracticable for parents and teachers to understand one another through the medium of children only. Come and see.

S. N. WALKER,
Principal 5th St. School.

NORMAL SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT—EXAMINATION—CLOSE OF TERM

The winter term of the Normal School will close on Tuesday next, March 23d. After a vacation of one week the spring term will commence. The closing examinations, conducted in writing, commenced on Thursday of the present week.

A public literary entertainment will be given by the school, on Monday evening, March 22d, accompanied by Music and Gymnastics. The proceeds of the evening will be appropriated exclusively to making payment on a piano, recently purchased by the Board, for the use of the school. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited. Tickets of admission, 25 cents, to be had at Clark's Book store and the Book store of Everett & Potter.

BRIDGE LETTINGS.

Proposals were received by the Commissioners on the 25th of February last, at Slabtown, for building two bridges, one arch, in Locust township, 72 feet long, and one brace, in Roaringcreek township, 45 feet long. The bids were as follows:

	ARCH.	BRACE.
Daniel Kostenbauder,	$1.248 00	$ 784 50
C. Fullmer,	2,100 00	1,100 00
A. J. Knable,	1,424 00	397 00
J. Baeleman,	1,900 00	825 00
Lewis Myers,	1,490 00	785 00
Stine & Swank,	1,340 00	773 00
King Iron Bridge Co.,	1,425 00	950 00

The latter was for iron bridges. The bids were for stone work and superstructure, all complete. D. Kostenbauder and Stine & Swank being the lowest bidders, the contracts were awarded to them. Bids for the iron bridges certainly compared favorably with those for wood.

OFF WITH THE PROFITS.

We need not expect much of a revival in business until there is less profit made on many manufactured articles. This 100, 200 and 300 per cent. on articles of daily use, and for which there is a steady demand, is too strong. Particularly does this statement apply to domestic utensils of cast iron, upon which there is no machine work whatever, and no labor involved except that of moulding. Curiosity recently induced a purchaser to weigh some cast iron baking pans in a house furnishing store, to see what they cost the manufacturer. The weight was a trifle over three pounds, and their cost, at the highest rates could not exceed fifteen cents. The price charged for them at retail was seventy-five cents. The price of waffle irons with handles, weighing not over ten pounds and costing fifty cents to manufacture, was $2.50. Such margins of profit are excessive, and must drive large percentage of purchasers out of the market.—Ex.

THE SPRING THAW AND FLOOD.

The few warm days of March started the snow and we hear of destructive floods in all quarters, and yet this is evidently only the beginning of the end. On Wednesday morning, between 7 and 8 o'clock the ice on the North Branch at this place commenced moving but soon formed a gorge, extending from below Catawissa, four miles south of Bloomsburg, to Espy, two miles north. About noon the Danville bridge, ten miles south, was reported gone. About 1 o'clock the gorge here commenced moving and immediately swept away the east end of the Catawissa wagon bridge across the river, and shortly after the whole of it gave way. We hear of no other serious damage in this immediate vicinity. The ice is gorged in Fishing creek from the double bridge below to the lower portion of town. Wednesday morning was cold, which increased in intensity until Thursday morning, when freezing approached mid-winter style, and this of course put an effectual stop to the further increase of water in the streams. But for this a disastrous flood would no doubt have occurred. All mails were late on Wednesday and in the evening the Lackawanna train proceeded no further north than Bloomsburg. No mails came down the road.

From above we have information that the Pittston and Kingston bridges were swept away and are now lodged at Nanticoke. The Berwick bridge is in great danger, as probably are also all the bridges on the river. As the flow of water to the river is now completely checked, it is hoped the balance of the inhuense snow may pass off without further serious damage.

We do not hear that the West Branch was destructively high though it must have been well up.

P. S. Late reports from Northumberland represent that the wagon bridge across the North Branch at that place is gone and that the railroad bridge is moved some feet.

FERTILIZERS.

The attention of farmers and truckers is directed to the advertisement of the Gray's Ferry Chemical Works, at Philadelphia. They are among the oldest and most responsible manufacturers of chemicals in the country. They write us that any farmer can manufacture his own Phosphate of Lime at a cost of about $20 per ton, of a quality equal, and in most cases superior to the commercial article, for which the price ranges from $45 to $50. If the farmer has the bones the cost of course will be much less. The process is said to be exceedingly simple, requiring no more art, time or trouble than to mix a bed of ordinary mortar. The value of phosphates as fertilizers for the various cereals, grasses and esculents is so completely established by long experience that it is unnecessary for us to comment upon the fact.

It would be well for all our farmers to communicate at once with the Gray's Ferry Chemical Works, get their formula, manufacture their own fertilizers and save money, as well as secure a pure article; or, if they have not been in the habit of using them, it would be well for them to give so important a subject their attention.

SNOWS OF 1874-5.

Mr. S. S. Runyan, of Millville, sends the editor of the COLUMBIAN the following minute account of snows as they fell this winter:

November	20,	day time,	3½ inches,
"	29,	morning,	1 "
December	3,	night,	1 "
"	6,	night,	1 "
"	7,	night,	1 "
"	20,	day time,	4½ "
January	3,	day time,	2 "
"	7,	day time,	3 "
"	19,	day time,	3½ "
"	24,	day time,	2½ "
"	26,	day time,	3 "
"	29,	day and night,	4½ "
"	31,	night and day,	5 "
February	11,	night and day,	8½ "
"	19,	day,	1 "
"	20,	all day,	4 "
"	26,	night,	½ "
"	27,	day,	3 "
March	1,	day time,	7 "
"	2,	day,	½ "
"	3,	all day,	6 "
"	5,	day,	1 "
"	7,	all day and night,	18 "
"	10,	morning,	1 "

Up to March 10, there were therefore no less than 24 snows, this winter, the total fall of which measured 7 feet, 2½ inches. Of these two snows (4½ inches) fell in November, four snows (7½ inches) in December, seven snows (23½ inches) in January, five snows (17 inches) in February, and six snows (33½ inches) in March. Our correspondent is perhaps not a prophet, at least he did not inform us how many more snows people were to be blessed with between this time and the first of June.

SURPRISE PARTY AT ORANGEVILLE.

On the evening of the 9th inst. a number of the good people of the Hidley congregation completely surprised their pastor, Rev. A. Houtz, of Orangeville. The unexpected guests entering unceremoniously by the back door, suddenly confronted the pastor and his lady, who could only exclaim, with confused look, 'What does all this mean?'

The mistress of the house was informed that her service was not needed in the kitchen for the present, and she accordingly withdrew. Soon there was heard in the kitchen a bustle, like the rattling of the stove, shuffling of pans and kettles, and the screeching of the extension table as though it was drawn out to its full length. Then was heard the clatter of plates, the rattling of forks and knives, and the tinkling of spoons. And now a brief silence followed, when the door was opened and an invitation to supper given. A single glance at once indicated that no pains or care was spared in the preparation and adjustment of the feast to the fastidious taste. Even Milo, of ancient fame, could have partook of this feast with the satisfaction that he did justice to the supper and to his ferocious appetite.

After feasting to hearts' content, all returned to the parlor and devoted several hours pleasantly to social conversation and music. At a reasonable time the party retired, leaving behind many substantial tokens of kindness, in the form of groceries, butter, meats, flour and various kinds of grains. Thus ended a pleasant surprise party. OBSERVER.

That animal that has so frequently raised the hair of night-walkers in Mt. Pleasant, Scott and the suburban portions of Bloomsburg, it is said, has been caught. On Thursday of last week it ran a dog into the barn-yard of David Shaffer, near Town, and was captured. It proved to be a cub Bear in a starved condition. It will no doubt be well fed now and prepared for market, when we hope a piece of it may grace an editor's table.

But, let it be remembered, this juvenile Bear could scarcely have caused all the frights of sky larkers that we have heard about, for that operation was performed at too many different points at the same time. We have never deemed it necessary to warn people of unsteady nerves and questionable practices against hobgoblins, but there is a something in the vicinity referred to that has an affinity for people that are out late at night and which evidently takes particular delight in making hair stand on end, exciting nervous sensibilities and in the benevolent enterprise of sobering young gents on their way home at lonely hours. It wont hurt anybod, its proclivity being manifestly altogether for frights, but it is sure to be about if you are out late at night and look closely for it, especially at obscured points. Perhaps the little Bear was one of a gang of tormenters.

Later.—Alas for the perversity of human imagination, more correct information compels us to state that Shaffer brought his cub from a lumber camp, and the particular "queer" that has given our belated friends so much concern is still at large!

The Enemy of Mankind, Consumption, can be cured; but it is far better to prevent the cruel disease from fastening itself on the system, by the timely use of the remedy like Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry 5 cents and $1 a bottle, large bottles much the cheaper.

A WRONG CUSTOM CORRECTED.

It is quite generally the custom to take strong liver stimulants for the cure of liver complaint, and both the mineral and vegetable kingdoms have been diligently searched to procure the most drastic and poisonous purgatives, in order to produce a powerful effect upon the liver, and arouse the languid and enfeebled organ. This system of treatment is on the same principle as that of giving a weak and debilitated man large portions of brandy to enable him to do a certain amount of work. When the stimulant is withheld, the organ, like the system, gradually relapses into a more torpid or sluggish and weakened condition than before. What then is wanted? Medicines, which, while they cause the bile to flow freely from the liver, as that organ is toned into action, will not overwork and thus debilitate it, but will, when their use is discontinued, leave the liver strengthened and healthy. Such remedies are found in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Purgative Pellets.

A CURE OF LIVER DISEASE.

Rusk, Texas, May 10, 1873.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir—My wife last year at this time was confined to her bed with chronic liver disease. I had one of the best doctors to see her and he gave her up to die, when I came upon some of your medicine. I bought one bottle and commenced giving it. She then weighed 82 pounds, now she weighs 140 pounds and is robust and hearty. She has taken eight bottles in all, so you see I am an advocate for your medicines. WILLIAM MEAZEL.

FROM THE NOTED SCOUT, "BUFFALO BILL."

Rockford House, Rockford, Ill., April 20, 1874.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.: sir—I have now taken four bottles of your Golden Medical Discovery in connection with your Pellets, and must say that nothing I have ever taken for my liver has done me so much good. I feel like a new man. Thanks to your wonderful medicine.

W. F. CODY, ("Buffalo Bill.")

E. F. KUNKEL'S BITTER WINE OF IRON. This truly valuable tonic has been so thoroughly tested by all classes of the community that it is now deemed indispensable as a tonic medicine. It costs but little, purifies the blood and gives tone to the stomach, renovates the system and prolongs life. Everybody should have it.

For the cure of weak stomachs, general debility, indigestion, diseases of the stomach and for all cases requiring a tonic.

This wine includes the most agreeable and efficient Salt of Iron we possess—Citrate of Magnetic Oxide, combined with the most energetic of vegetable tonics—Yellow Peruvian Bark.

Do you want something to strengthen you?
Do you want a good appetite?
Do you want to get rid of nervousness?
Do you want energy?
Do you want to sleep well?
Do you want to build up a constitution?
Do you want to feel well?
Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?
If you do try KUNKEL'S BITTER WINE OF IRON. I only ask a trial of this valuable tonic!

Beware of counterfeits, as Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron is the only sure and effectual remedy in the known world for the permanent cure of Dyspepsia and Debility, and as there are a number of imitations offered to the public, I would caution the community to purchase none but the genuine article, manufactured by E. F. Kunkel, and having his stamp on the cork of every bottle. The very fact that others are attempting to imitate this valuable remedy proves its worth and speaks volumes in its favor. Get the genuine.

Sold only in $1 bottles Sold by Druggists and dealers everywhere.

220 TAPE WORM REMOVED ALIVE. 220

Head and all complete in two hours. No fee till head passes. Seat, Pin and Stomach Worms removed by Dr Kunkel, 249, North Sixth st., Philadelphia. Send for circular or ask your druggist for a bottle of Kunkel's Worm Syrup. It never fails. Price $1.

A ROYAL ORGAN.

The stomach has been well named a "royal organ," since it sways and controls the entire system, every gland, tissue and nerve sympathizing with it as the servants of a prince sympathize with their master. Each one of them is fed and sustained by it—even the brain itself, the centre of sensation, is absolutely dependent upon it for sustenance. Consequently, when the stomach fails to perform its all-important office, the subordinate organs also falter in their duty. The reason why Hostetter's Stomach Bitters have such a wondrously beneficial effect upon the general health and are such a reliable preventative of disease, is that they speedily overcome weakness or disorders of the stomach, and thus insure complete nourishment of the entire system and a healthful performance of its various functions. Unlike those stimulants whose alcoholic principle is unmodified by judicious medication, the spirituous basis of these bitters, which is of the purest description holds in solution herbal alteratives and invigorants to which a foremost rank has been assigned in materia medica. But it is not alone the fact that these sovereign botanic elements enter into the composition of the bitters that constitutes them such a benign tonic and corrective, but also that they are so happily combined that the full effect of each is exerted upon the disordered or debilitated system. The digestive and secretive organs are the first to experience their beneficent operation, which extends by sympathy, to the brain, the nerves and the circulation. The influence thus exerted is fruitful of those great sanitary results which have built up the reputation of this truly medicinal medicine.

If a man wants a bottle of whiskey, let him buy it and take it home like a man, and not sneak home with a bottle of "bitters" or "Cordial," and pretend that it is medicine. If he wants a tonic that is something better than a temporary stimulant, he should get a bottle of Peruvian Syrup, (an Iron Tonic,) that will vitalize the blood and give durable strength to the system.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A Gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence,

JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar st., New York.

THE BEST PRINTING OFFICE.

The present is a good opportunity to remind the friends of the paper, and the public generally, that the COLUMBIAN JOB PRINTING OFFICE has no superior in this section, and, in some respects, is without an equal. During the last year we have completely renewed our types and made large additions, and it is no idle boast to say that we have now the Best Presses, the Best Assortment of Type, the Best Stock of Paper, Cards, &c., and the Best Workmen in the county. Our workmen are specially adapted for their places, and we make it a point to always give our customers a neat, correct and satisfactory job,—We do not claim to do work for less than others, but will warrant it to be as cheap as can be done anywhere and yield a decent profit. All who are in need of Job Printing of any kind—Plain or in Colors—will find it to their interest to give the COLUMBIAN Office a trial. We have on hand every variety of Cards Paper, Ink, Envelopes, Tags, &c., that is likely to be called for, and can furnish any quantity or style of work on short notice. Binding to order. tf

WHERE TO ADVERTISE.

A. T. Stewart says the best advertising mediums he has ever found are the old established organs of the two political parties, at the several county seats throughout the Union." "These," he says "reach every family of the least account in their several counties, and are more carefully read than any other class of journals." If Mr. Stewart's judgment is of value, there is no difficulty in deciding which paper it is for the interest of business men to advertise in. The COLUMBIA DEMOCRAT, upon which this paper is partially founded, was established in 1836, and the COLUMBIAN now enjoys a wider circulation and greater prosperity than it ever did. It goes regularly into two thousand families in Columbia and adjoining counties, and by most of them is read from the first to the last line. It is the only recognized exponent of near five thousand Democratic voters in the county. It gives advertisements a tasty display, that makes them attractive to its patrons, thus ensuring greater certainty that they will peruse them. While its circulation is undoubtedly much the largest in the county, the advertising rates of the COLUMBIAN are no higher than those of other papers with barely half and several not one-fourth the number of subscribers. Facts like these speak for themselves. No shrewd business man will neglect to insert his advertisement in the COLUMBIAN. tf

MODERN WOMEN.

It is a sad commentary upon our boasted civilization that the women of our times have degenerated in health and physique until they are literally a race of invalids—pale, feeble and back-achy, with only here and there a few noble exceptions in the persons of the robust, buxom ladies so characteristic of the sex in days gone by. By a very large experience, covering a period of years and embracing the treatment of many thousands of cases of these ailments peculiar to women, Dr. Pierce, of the World's Dispensary, Buffalo, N. Y., has perfected, by the combination of certain vegetable extracts, a natural specific, which he does not extol as a cure-all, but one which admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most positive and reliable remedy for those weaknesses and complaints that afflict the women of the present day. This natural specific compound is called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. The following are among those diseases in which this wonderful medicine has worked cures as if by magic and with a certainty never before attained by any medicines: Weak back, nervous and general debility, falling and other displacements of internal organs, resulting from debility and lack of strength in natural supports, internal fever, congestion, inflamation and ulceration and very many other chronic diseases incident to women, not proper to mention here, in which, as well as in the cases that have been enumerated, the Favorite Prescription effects cures—the marvel of the world. It will not do harm in any state or condition of the system, and by adopting its use the invalid lady may avoid that severest of ordeals—the consulting of a family physician. Favorite Prescription is sold by dealers in medicines generally.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, free of charge, with the directions for preparing and using the same, which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c.

Parties wishing the prescription will please address Rev. E. A. WILSON, 191 Penn St., Williamsburgh, New York.

AMERICANS ARE A NATION OF DYSPEPTICS.—We live fast, dissipate and die early graves. We drink all kinds of alcoholic spirits, and eat what, without knowledge, pork, grease and very kind of indigestible food. Dr. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS will remove the evil effects, and the recovered patient, with pure, vitalized electrical blood flowing through his veins will have a clearer head and a cooler judgment, which added to experience, will cause him to abstain in the future. 9-4w

It is our duty not only to scatter benefits, but even to strew flowers for the sake of our fellow-travelers in the pathway of this wonderful world.

There are two elements of success in the world, flattery and insolence; some use one mode, some the other, but the most successful use both or either, as the position requires.

Half the reputations for wit that pass current in fashionable life are based on ill-natured sayings of persons who would find it difficult to obtain any notice in society, except by censorious observations.

The separation of friends by death is less terrible than the divorce of true hearts that have loved, but have ceased to sympathise, while memory is still recalling what they once were to each other.

The great designs that have been digested and matured, and the great literary works that have been begun and finished in prisons, prove that tyrants have not yet discovered any chains that can fetter the mind.

All deep feeling agree in this, that they seek for solitude and are nursed by solitude. Deep grief, deep love—how naturally do these ally themselves with religious feelings; and all three, love, grief, religion, are haunters of solitary places.

The brain of a child one year old, as for the first time, resembles a large and superb camelia, with its ivory nerves, veined with delicate rosy traces, and elsewhere of a pale blue. We say "ivory" for want of a better term; it is an immaculate white.

How to Build Up a Place.

There can hardly be a greater sign of prosperity in a community than a disposition to help one another—lift a little when a neighbor's wheel gets stuck in the mud.

We know of a place where a man's barn with all his winter's stores of grain and hay were consumed by fire in the night. Immediately all the men of the country side mustered and hauled up timber for a new barn, and then a big raising came off. After that the sound of twenty or more hammers were heard until the whole was shingled and sided. But their deed of kindness was not done yet; one after another offered to take a head of stock and winter them for him, thus greatly reducing his loss and assuring his heart of the more durable riches of brotherly love and neighborly good will. No one can compute in money the value of one such example of noble liberality in a community especially in its influence upon the young.

When this spirit prevails there is sure to be progress in a place even if all the improvements are in their infancy. People will come and settle in a place which bears such a good name. Now, if you desire to see your place growing popular, do what you can to show yourself a good neighbor, especially to those who need a little extra help.

If a man starts a tin shop or a blacksmith's shop in your place don't harness up and drive five miles to buy your pans and get your horses shod because you have been in the habit of doing it. Patronize the new comer when you want anything done in his line. Speak encouragingly to him and well of him to your neighbors. Little words of approval or of censure go a long way, and when once you have spoken them you can not call them back.

Help the sick especially if they are poor, for poverty and illness are indeed a heavy burden. Perform all acts of loving charity which fall day by day in your path, remembering who it is that has said, "Ye shall in no wise lose your reward."

Whipping Horses.

I would caution all who train or use horses against exciting the ill-will of the animals. Many think they are doing finely, and are proud of their success in horse-training by means of severe whipping or otherwise rousing and stimulating the passions, and then, from necessity, crushing the will through which the resistance is prompted. No mistake can be greater than this; and there is nothing that so fully exhibits the ability, judgment and skill of the real horseman as the care and tact displayed in winning instead of repelling the action of the mind. Although it may be necessary to use the whip sometimes, it should always be applied judiciously, and care should be taken not to rouse the passions or excite the will to obstinacy. The legitimate and proper use of the whip is calculated to operate on the sense of fear almost entirely. The affections and better nature must be appealed to in training horses as in training a child, but if only the passions are excited, the effect is depraving and injurious. This is a vital principle, and can be disregarded in the management of sensitive, courageous horses only at the imminent risk of spoiling them. I have known many horses of naturally gentle character to be spoiled by being whipped once, and one horse that was made vicious by being struck with a whip once while standing in his stall. I have referred to those instances to show the danger of rough treatment, and the effect that may be easily produced by ill usage, especially with fine blooded horses and those of highly nervous temperament. Many other cases might be cited, as such are, by no means uncommon. Sensitive horses should never be left after they have been excited by the whip or other means until calmed down by rubbing or patting the head and neck and giving apples, sugar, or something of which the animal is fond. Remember the whip must be used with great care, or it is liable to do mischief, and may cause irreparable injury.

How Often Should Cows be Milked.

Regularity in the milking of cows is of as much importance as regularity in feeding them. In a state of nature, the cow is relieved of its milk a great many times each day. A calf allowed to remain with its mother will help itself seven or eight times each day. Under such circumstances the udder of the cow will remain small, and if allowed to retain the milk secreted during the twelve hours, feverish symptoms are likely to be produced. The practice of milking cows more than twice in twenty-four hours causes the capacity of the udder to be greatly increased, and probably helps in maintaining the lacteal secretion long after pregnancy has taken place. When, however, by an artificial system, the cow has been enabled to retain her milk without inconvenience for twelve hours or so, she ought to be milked regularly every day at the same hour. When the time for milking arrives, the udder usually becomes distended to its utmost capacity, and if the milk is not speedily removed, the animal suffers considerable pain. Cases of fever, the result of allowing animals to remain too long unmilked, are, indeed, by no means of unfrequent occurrence. It is especially necessary to attend to this point for some days after the animal has brought forth its young, for during that period very little irritation of the lacteal organs is likely to bring on that most fatal of all maladies, fever. If milking be too long delayed, nature will try to help the poor animal. An absorption of milk into the blood will to some extent take place, and that which remains in the udder will become deteriorated. When neglect to milk a cow at the regular time is repeated several times the secretion of the fluid is permanently checked; and there are many cases where by such neglect, an animal has become dry in less than a month.—Irish Farmer's Gazette.

CROWS.—We see it recommended to saturate corn intended for planting, in liquid poison so that crows when they eat it will die. We hope our farmers will not be guilty of such an act.

There is no bird that flies that destroys more worms and destructive insects than the crow. He saves the farmer hundreds of dollars in this way, and what are a few grains of corn? He needs them, poor fellow, for digestion, just as much as the farmer himself needs corn cake after having eaten bread made of wheat flour for six months. Don't disturb the crow. He is a thief by nature but this he cannot help Give him free range and if he steals worms let him steal a little corn.—Butler Herald.

A crow will eat a bushel of cut-worms, before he will take ten cents worth of corn.

Modern Courtship.

The system of love, courtship and marriage has undergone very radical changes since the days when Jacob devoted a considerable portion of his life to winning Leah, the tender eyed, and Rachael the beautiful. Who, in this age of steam, electricity and Atlantic cables, could devote seven years to paying those laborious attentions which have justly come to be called "serious"—so serious, indeed, that in many instances the fashionable pair are oppressed by a sad feeling of soberness during the remainder of their lives? Even Jacob himself, did he live in our time, would scout at the idea as preposterous. Fancy "the girl of the period" bombarded with flowers, at the rate of ten dollars per boquet, during seven mortal winters! Calculate how many miles of "Germans" the aspirants would dance during that space of time! Imagine the innumerable cups of tea he would imbibe in the domestic circle while on such long terms of intimacy with his beloved's family. No physical system could stand it. The most robust man would break down under the ordeal. Even Patrick himself, who from early youth has been brought up to constant and severe labor, would find it impossible, while "kapeing company" with Bridget, to "ice-cream and discourse her" for seven consecutive years. The world was made in seven days; but many of the enterprising youth of the present age have shown that all the courting necessary before marriage can be accomplished in much less time, Jacob to the contrary notwithstanding.—New York Evening Post.

A countryman bought a shirt in Raleigh, N. C. Was the first white shirt he ever owned. The next Sunday he was to be married, and that was the important occasion that had incited him to the purchase. The shirt had a nice starch bosom, and was open in the back—a style that was new to its possessor. After careful study he put it on with the opening in front, concluding that the stiff bosom was intended as a kind of shoulder-brace to make him stand erect. Thus dressed, he met the bride at the church door; but her knowledge was greater than his about shirts, and she made him go home and reverse his garment before she would allow the ceremony to proceed.

Black-eyed ladies are most apt to be passionate and jealous. Blue-eyed, soulful, truthful, affectionate, and confiding. Gray-eyed, philosophical, literary, resolute, cold-hearted. Hazel-eyed, quick-tempered and fickle.

VEGETINE

strikes at the root of disease by purifying the blood restoring the liver and kidneys to healthy action, invigorating the nervous system.

VEGETINE

Is not a vile, nauseous compound, which simply purges the bowels, but a safe, pleasant remedy which is sure to purify the blood, and thereby restore the health.

VEGETINE

Is now prescribed in cases of scrofula and other diseases of the blood by many of the best physicians, owing to its great success in curing all diseases of this nature.

VEGETINE

Does not deceive invalids into false hopes by purging and creating a fictitious appetite, but assists nature in cleaning and purifying the whole system, leading the patient gradually to perfect health.

VEGETINE

Was tested upon as an experiment for some time by some of our best physicians but those most incredulous in regard to its merit are now its most ardent friends and supporters.

VEGETINE

Instead of being a puffed-up medicine has worked its way up to its astonishing present success by actual merit in curing all diseases of the blood, of whatever nature.

VEGETINE

Says a Boston physician, "has no equal as a blood purifier. Hearing of its many wonderful cures after all other remedies had failed, I visited the laboratory and convinced myself of its genuine merit. It is prepared from barks, roots and herbs, each of which is highly effective, and they are compounded in such a manner as to produce astonishing results."

VEGETINE

Is acknowledged and recommended by physicians and apothecaries to be the best purifier and cleanser of the blood ever discovered, and thousands speak in its praise who have been restored to health.

PROOF.

WHAT IS NEEDED.

BOSTON, Feb. 13, 181.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—About one year since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility. VEGETINE was strongly recommended to me by a friend who had been much benefitted by its use. I procured the article and after using several bottles, was restored to health and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that there is no medicine superior to it for those complaints for which it is especially prepared, and would cheerfully recommend it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health. Respectfully yours,

P. L. PETTINGILL,
Firm of S. M. Pettengill & Co., 10 State st., Boston.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 26, 1872.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—The two bottles of VEGETINE furnished me by your agent, my wife has used with great benefit.

For a long time she has been troubled with dizziness and costiveness; these troubles are now entirely removed by the use of VEGETINE.

She was also troubled with Dyspepsia and general debility; and has been greatly benefitted.

THOS. GILMORE, 225½ Walnut street.

FEL MYSELF A NEW MAN.

NATICK, MASS., June 1st, 1872.

MR. H. H. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—Through the advice and earnest persuasion of Rev. E. S. Best, of this place, I have been taking VEGETINE for dyspepsia of which I have suffered for years.

I have used only two bottles and already feel myself a new man. Respectfully,

Dr. J. W. CARTER.

Report from a Practical Chemist and Apothecary.

BOSTON, Jan. 1, 1874.

Dear Sir—This to certify that I have sold at retail 15½ dozen (186) bottles of your VEGETINE since April 12, 1870, and can truly say that it has given the best satisfaction of any remedy for the complaints for which it is recommended, that I ever sold. Scarcely a day passes without some of my customers testify to its merits on themselves or their friends. I am perfectly cognizant of several cases of scrofulous tumors being cured by VEGETINE alone in this vicinity. Very respectfully yours,

A. I. GILMAN, 448, Broadway.
